Right attributes, right mix, right team for the path you're pursuing.

Using sophisticated, proven scientific methods, our organizational design and development partner, Assessment Technologies Group (ATG), builds productive individuals and organizations by helping clients to:

- Select precisely the right person for every job
- Build more effective teams
- Strengthen leadership
- Facilitate organizational change
- Improve employee productivity and commitment
- Operate at peak performance with lower costs

ATG's hiring management and selection systems bring science and efficiency to the process of finding, screening and selecting the talent most likely to drive organizational success. Their integrated suite of sourcing and selection resources is customizable and scalable for organizations of virtually any size.

ATG tools for work styles assessment and team building are among the resources we use in Solomon Coyle consulting engagements. We endorse ATG's science-based approach and are pleased to help Solomon Coyle clients establish their own self-service and/or consulting relationship with the ATG team.