Learning from others who share your passion for improvement.

The Solomon Coyle peer group is a uniquely effective learning environment. It's a community of students of the industry who are serious about improving performance and profitability and willing to share their own success stories—under a code of mutual confidentiality—so that others in the group might also profit from them. Solomon Coyle brings value to the experience by applying our team's industry knowledge and expertise as facilitators and association management professionals.

We currently lead peer groups for Allsteel, Haworth, Herman Miller, Steelcase and Teknion LLC dealers, DIRTT partners and independent installation companies.
